A huge factor that drew me to joining the Council on the Status of Women, specifically the Title IX Committee, is having the ability to provide services to women who are victims of sexual assault and harassment. The byproduct of violence is apparent in every aspect of a victim's life.

Violence prevention and intervention on campus is pertinent for an individual's ability to interact with others and construct their future. Amplifying women's voices, needs, and desires is a central goal of mine, and I believe the Council on the Status of Women's mission and work aligns with that belief.
